Court Blocks Browns

FOOTBALL The city of Cleveland on Monday won a temporary court order to stop the Cleveland Browns NFL team from moving to Baltimore.

Lawyers for the city filed suit in a state court on behalf of the residents of Cleveland, asking that the move be blocked even as official confirmation of the deal was pending. A temporary restraining order was granted to halt the move until at least Nov. 20 when a full-fledged hearing will be held. The Browns' owner, Art Modell, and the Maryland Stadium Authority have struck a deal that would give the Browns a 30-year, rent-free lease in a 70,000-seat, $200 million stadium to be built at Camden Yards, next to the Orioles' baseball stadium. Baseball Signs TV Deal

BASEBALL Major League Baseball announced a five-year television deal Monday that guarantees each team more than $50 million.

The deals with NBC, Fox, ESPN and Liberty Media give teams about 85 percent of the national broadcasting revenue that was generated from 1990-93 contracts with CBS and ESPN.

They replace The Baseball Network, a joint venture between the teams, ABC and NBC. NBC and ABC pulled out of TBN in June. At the time, NBC Sports president, Dick Ebersol, said his network wouldn't televise baseball again until the next millennium. He said team owners had dealt with his network and ABC unfairly. (AP)

Challenge for Fifa Head

SOCCER Europe's leading soccer official, Lennart Johansson, the president of UEFA, is to stand for the presidency of FIFA, the sport's governing body. He told the German magazine Kicker on Monday that he planned to stand in the election to succeed João Havelange in 1998. The Brazilian has been in charge since 1974. (Reuters)

Pole Vault Record Rises

ATHLETICS The Chinese pole vaulter Liu Guanyu broke the women's world record last week by scaling 23 meters (13.58 feet), Chinese newspapers said Monday.

Sun beat seven Russian and German athletes at an international pole vault meet in southern Shenzhen on Saturday to rewrite the world record, the China Sports Daily and the People's Daily said. (Reuters)

Champion With a Goal:
Teach the Raptors to Kill
Toronto's GM 'Takes No Prisoners'

By Clifton Brown
New York Times Service

TORONTO — The sound of squeaking sneakers and bouncing balls echoed in the almost-deserted Skydome. From a far corner, a pair of intense eyes watched each move.

Isiah Thomas, vice president of basketball operations and part-owner of the Toronto Raptors, sat in an empty row of seats, hand resting on his chin, rarely shifting his gaze from the court where the Raptors were practicing. A cellular phone was in one hand. A championship ring, one of two that Thomas earned as a player, glistened on the other hand.

This is how Thomas spends his 18-hour workdays, hoping to mold an expansion franchise into a winner, a champion.

Toronto's entry into the National Basketball Association was a hit Friday night, with a 94-79 victory over the Nets. When it was over, people converged on Thomas. Some wanted an autograph. Others snapped his picture. Some shook his hand. Others even hugged him.

Thomas needed some rest and some quiet, but he paused for all the well-wishers, then made his way to the locker room to congratulate Coach Brendan Malone, his staff and the players. Asked what he thought about the opening-night crowd of 33,306, a record for Canadian basketball, Thomas took a deep breath and flashed his 100-watt smile.

"I think," said Thomas, "that they just feel in love."

But while opening night played like a fairy tale, reality is never far away. On Saturday night, the Raptors lost 97-89 to the Indiana Pacers. Expansion is more than just one night, or one victory.

Expansion means starting with rosters of veteran castoffs, young players trying to realize their potential and untested rookies. Expansion means growing pains, losing streaks and trying to sell a hockey-oriented country on another game.

Thomas loves the challenge, but he loves almost any challenge. Thomas only stopped playing two years ago. He is still just 34. He has is getting a rare opportunity to step almost directly from the court into the front office. And he has approached management with the same tenacity that he used to become one of the game's great players, a 6-foot-1-inch (1.85-meter) point guard who could dominate a game with his talent, and with his will.

With Thomas, the smile can disarm you. John Bitove, the Raptors' majority owner, was intrigued that not everyone whom he asked about Thomas liked him.

"People told me he's intelligent," said Bitove. "They told me he's competitive. And they told me he takes no prisoners. Some people have a problem with that last one. It's not cool, with some people, to want to win that badly."

How did Bitove feel about it? "It turned me on," said Bitove. "Isiah was not initially on the list of people I was even considering. His star quality almost cost him the job. We're very serious about building a long-term success here, and we didn't want the perception that with Isiah, we were just trying to generate interest selling ourselves. If I didn't think he'd succeed, he wouldn't be here."

Thomas feels his career prepared him for management. He entered the league when he was 20, so he knows the traps that face young athletes when attention and millions of dollars are suddenly thrust their way.

When he joined the Pistons, they were much like an expansion team — a losing franchise that few people wanted to play for. Thomas had the toughness and self-confidence to take on the role of team leader.

John Salley, a forward-center with the Raptors, played with Thomas on Detroit's 1989 and 1990 championship teams. Asked if he felt strange working for someone who used to be his teammate, Salley laughed.

"I've always worked for Isiah," said Salley. "Even when I played with him, that's how I felt."

Toronto hopes to become an attractive franchise, so free agents will consider the team when they consider their options. There are plans for a new downtown arena in Toronto, scheduled to open in time for the 1998-99 season, so that the Raptors can move out of the cavernous Skydome, a stadium built for baseball.

In the meantime, Thomas and Malone insist that the players think like winners. Thomas always wears one of his championship rings to work; a reminder of what he wants.

"You have to see what you're chasing," said Thomas. "We won't measure success this year by number of wins. We'll measure it by our commitment. My goal is tireless, and relentless. But I'm going to put in the hours it takes."

Yet, when Friday's game ended, Thomas did not look tired at all. He looked like someone who was just getting started.

Grizzlies Start With a Loud Roar

The Associated Press

VANCOUVER, British Columbia — Chris King tipped in the winning shot at the buzzer by Byron Scott's miss, to give the Vancouver Grizzlies a 100-98 overtime victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves in front of a sellout crowd in its first regular-season home game.

No NBA expansion team since the 1966 Chicago Bulls, who started with three victories, has won its first two games. Vancouver had begun with a 12-point victory Friday in Portland.

"They were terrific," said Vancouver's coach, Brian Winters. Trailing by 14 going into the fourth quarter, the Grizzlies went on a 13-0 run and for the rest of the night the crowd of 19,193, was in uproar as the Grizzlies showed remarkable poise. In overtime, Scott stumbled as he shot from the paint, missing the shot, only to have the leaping King tip home the winner.

It was King's first game-winning shot since high school.

Ajax Loses Its Record but Preserves Its Lead

European Champion Happy to Tie 2d-Place PSV Eindhoven

Reuters

The European champions Ajax Amsterdam lost its 100 percent record in the Dutch League season when it tied, 1-1 with second-placed PSV Eindhoven on Sunday.

Despite dropping its first points after 12 straight victories, Ajax extended its unbeaten league run to 47 games.

The Brazilian striker Ronaldo put PSV ahead midway through the first half but three minutes later Ajax's Nigerian striker Nwankwo Kanu equalized.

After the break, both teams settled for a point, effectively killing the game for the capacity 45,000 crowd.

PSV's Belgian international Luc Nilis said: "The title race is far from over. We're still right behind Ajax. They have to lose a match sometime."

Ajax, with a goal tally of 48-4, stays on top five points ahead of PSV and 14 ahead of Willem II.

France's Paris Saint-Germain replaced Metz at the top in France on Sunday night. The Parisians toiled to a 3-2 home victory against Nice, twice coming from behind against a team reduced to 10 men for most of the match.

Nice took the lead after 12 minutes with an own goal by Paul Le Guen. Five minutes before the interval, the Panamanian striker Julio César Dely Valdés, coming back from injury, equalized.

Nice regained the lead when James Debbah capped a long solo run with a goal in the 55th minute. But PSG equalized again through the Brazilian midfielder Rai in the 70th minute, and Dely Valdés hit the winner with 10 minutes left in regulation time. Paris Saint-Germain has little time to rest on its laurels. It visits lowly Middlesbrough on Wednesday night.

Metz, which was on top before it lost, 1-0, to Bastia, is at home to Saint-Etienne.

Italy: Goals from Paolo Di Canio and Gianluigi Lentini, late replacements for the injured George Weah and Roberto Baggio, set AC Milan on its way to an unimpressive 3-2 home victory over Cagliari on Sunday night.

The win kept Milan level at the top with Parma, which had earlier beaten Cremonese, 3-0. Juventus's strange schizophrenic season continued when it lost, 1-0, at Udinese, its third defeat in four games.

Juve, which have a 100 percent record in the Champions' League, dropped to fifth in Serie A.

Juventus' captain, Gianluca Vialli, tried to explain his team's play: "It's not intentional on our part that we are doing well in the Champions' League and not at home. You have to concede, however, that the sides we've played in the Champions' League so far have all been beatable and then they don't know us as well as the Italian clubs we meet in the league, all of which play out of their skulls to beat us."

On Monday, AC Milan bought Patrick Viera, a 19-year-old French midfielder player from Cannes. The club now has five foreign players.

PORTUGAL: Champions Porto, fired by a double strike from Domingos Oliveira, beat Benfica, 3-0, to go six points clear at the top of the Portuguese league on Sunday.

Porto secured its ninth victory in 10 first division matches with two goals from the league's top scorer, Oliveira, and one by the Hungarian midfielder Peter Lipcsei.

Boavista, who beat Farense, 3-0, at home, is second. Benfica shares third place with its Lisbon rival, Sporting.

Benfica, which has not won a game at Porto's Antas Stadium for five years, was reduced to 10 men 13 minutes from the end when the Brazilian defender Ricardo Gomes was sent off.

Norway: In Oslo, Rosenborg won the replayed Norwegian Cup final, beating Brann, 3-1, with goals from Tom Kaare Staaurvik, Erik Hofstun and Steffen Iversen after Per-Ove Ludvigsen had given Brann a 21st minute lead.

"I closed my eyes when the pass came and went for it," Iversen said of his headed goal. "It was a great feeling to open my eyes and see the ball hit the net."

Coach Freed on Bail

CANNES — Miroslav Blazevic, the former Nantes coach implicated in alleged slush funds at Olympique Marseille, was freed on bail of 100,000 francs ($20,000) on Monday. The Croat national coach was arrested at Geneva two weeks ago. (AP)

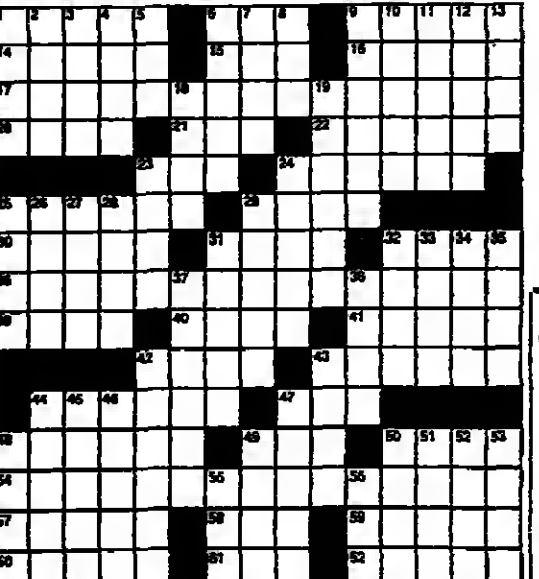

Cagliari's Luis Oliveira, on the ground, tries to bite Dejan Savicevic of Milan.

Jonathan Pryce Is Taking His Turn at Fame

One gets the impression that Pryce, with a velvety voice and deep, sad eyes, still has the best roles ahead of him. And if he's not courting fame, at least he's not rejecting it.

When Andrew Litton, music director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, and the pianist Andre Watts appear together in a concert in Carnegie Hall in New York this month, it will mark another chapter in a long-running friendship. "I first heard him play when I was 8 or 9," Litton said. "I flipped out at his intensity."
